

check, it is also the difference between ownership and dependence. It is the difference between having that money there, that it is your money, that if you die before retirement age, it goes into your estate. It means that, with the Supreme Court decisions, that there is no guarantee that politicians do not mess around with that money that you have expected in your retirement.

Even those who oppose PRAs, I thought this was an interesting quote. I got this from Senator GRAMS also. This is a letter from Senators BARBARA BOXER, DIANNE FEINSTEIN, and Senator TED KENNEDY to President Clinton saying let San Diego keep their PRA program and not use a technicality to force them back into Social Security. And they said in the letter to President Clinton, "Millions of our constituents will receive higher retirement benefits from their current public pension than they would under Social Security."

I am wrapping this up with the last three charts. This again is what other countries are doing by privatizing, well ahead of America. Even these countries that are socialist countries have now gone to privatization.

The British workers chose PRAs with 10 percent returns. And who could blame them. They have got a two-tier system. But two out of three of the British workers enrolled in the second tier, Social Security system chose to enroll in the personal retirement accounts. The British workers have enjoyed a 10 percent return on their pension investments over the past few years. The pool of PRAs in Britain exceeds nearly $1.4 trillion, larger than their entire economy and larger than the private pensions of all other European countries combined.

The U.S. trails other countries in saving its retirement system. Of course Chile was one of the early countries. In the 18 years since Chile offered the PRAs, 90 percent of the Chilean workers have created accounts. Their average rate of return has been 11.3 percent per year. Among others, Australia, Britain, Switzerland offer workers the PRAs.

I represented the United States Public Pension Retirement Program in an international meeting in Europe 3 years ago. I was really, and I am not sure if the word is impressed or astounded, at the number of countries throughout the world that is moving their public pensions to have some real investments with some of that money that is coming in.

We have got countries now that are paying up to a 40 percent payroll tax to cover their senior benefits and a tremendous pressure not only on the workers and how much money they get, but a tremendous pressure on the cost of the goods they produce. So it puts those countries at a real competitive disadvantage when they have to add to the cost of products they sell enough to pay their workers to survive and still take almost half of it for their senior retirement program.

I want to save this one. This is the average rate of return on stocks in the last 100 years. But this is based on a family income of $58,000. The returns on a PRA, the three colors, the light blue is 2 percent of your earnings, the pink is 6 percent of your earnings, and the purple is 10 percent of your earnings. And so, you can see that in 20 years you can take 10 percent of your earnings and have it valued at $274,000. If you were to leave that in for 40 years, it would be worth $1,389,000.

The point is that you can be an average income worker and you can retire as a wealthy retiree because of the magic of compound interest. And that means the long-term investments.

I drew this chart which represents what you would have paid in if you had left the money in for 30 years. Any year in our history, a 30-year period put around the worst depressions that we have had in the last 100 years is still going to end up with a positive return of almost three percent. The average is 2.6 percent. So, on average, leaving that investment in the equity stock markets for 30 years, it is a 2.6 return.

We have got to have provisions where you do not have to bounce out and cash in all at once. And I do this in my legislation. It has got to be done in any legislation we have. We have got to continue the safety net. We have got to continue having options for those individuals that decide they want to stay in the same system. But we have also got to have an opportunity where individuals have that ownership, have that control by having their own accounts without the chance that Government is going to mess around with it later. And we have got to have the criteria in developing any plan that we do not have yet again another tax increase, that we do not have any benefit cuts for seniors or near-term retirees.

If anybody would like to see the details of my Social Security proposal and probably more than you ever wanted to know about Social Security, this is my website: www.house.gov.NickSmith/welcomehtml.

If you go to one of the search engines and you do "Nick Smith on Social Security," it should come up here on my website.

Mr. Speaker, I think we have come a long way in terms of the lockbox, not spending the Social Security surplus. I think this year we are doing it again by saying we are going to take at least 90 percent of the total surplus and put that 90 percent for either Social Security for the time being, use it to pay down the debt held by the public, and only argue about the other 10 percent.

There is a danger of Government growing faster than it should simply because politicians get on the front page of the paper and on the television set when they take home pork barrel projects.

I think if there is anything I would ask the public, Mr. Speaker, to do in this campaign when they are talking to the representatives running for Federal office is to pin them down on Social Security. It is something that we cannot afford to give up.
